There are a lot of fellows who do not appear to know just how to run it, but this is still the greatest and best country in the world. If it were run right, it would be even greater and better than that. But arrangements to that effect will be made in November.

The Republican convention at Philadelphia endorsed the monarchical form of government, so far as can be distinguished by a study of the "driver" that they call a platform. The Democrats, at Kansas City, will declare for the integrity of the republic. The issue is plain.

The colors in some of the American flags and streamers yesterday after the rain looked like the present American policy—a little faded; but in the majority of the decorations the colors held fast and looked all the brighter for the deluge. This is emblematic of the true American principle instilled in the hearts of our people, and no man or set of men can lead them astray for long.

The addresses at the dedication of the Spanish cannon, July 4, were eloquent and appropriate. Judge William R.
Day presided with dignity and ability and made a happy speech. Mayor Robertson's address was an excellent one. President McKinley, after repeated calls, responded with a patriotic utterance befitting the occasion. The chief orator of the day was William A. Lynch. As a speaker Mr.
Lynch has few peers in the country and his address on this occasion was a gem of oratory, perfect in diction and sublime in its lofty patriotism. Mr. Lynch is a happy talker as well as an eloquent one and his address was greatly appreciated by the public and by the distinguished guests.

The Mapleton band headed the old warriors of the G. A. R. who were out and made the march in the hot sun about 65 strong. And, truth to tell, these men, who, in the prime of their manhood more than a third of a century ago, fought valiantly to preserve the Union, in spite of their years, stood the tiresome and enervating march as well as the younger men in the parade.
There is something pathetic and sad in the appearance of these veterans as they appear with whitening hair and thinning ranks from year to year. Only a few more years and the last will have answered the eternal reveille.
In the glamour of recent achievements we must not forget the men who fought the greatest war the world has ever seen, and as their numbers grow less the honor accorded them should be the greater, and this too without detracting from the meed of our younger soldiers. For, as Schley said, there is glory enough for all.

WILL GET FRIGHTENED.

The minute Bryan is nominated and the platform adopted the Republicans will get scared and go to work. Mark it. They did in 1896 and they have much more reason to do it now. Democrats are coming back to the fold and Republican accessions are constantly increasing. Mr. McKinley will not draw from the Democratic vote as he did in 1896 for there is not the slightest excuse for a Democrat to vote the Republican ticket this year. Those who love their country and free institutions will vote the Democratic ticket on the main issue, empire or republic, and many of these votes will come from Republicans. It is reasonable to expect that more Republicans will vote for Bryan than Democrats for McKinley.
Had that been true in 1896 the result would have been Bryan's triumphant election. How is McKinley to win with the condition as it is this year? The Republicans will begin to hustle at once after the notification committee has done its work. It will then be the duty of Democrats to get together, stay together, and do effective work together.
We can win.

Canton merchants did not need to expend much in the way of decorations for their floats. Their pretty and elaborate displays consisted largely of goods from their stores. They are available for the people at any time.
In this connection it was frequently remarked by visitors that Canton merchants are enterprising and thoroughly up-to-date.

A POLL OF CITIES.

The New York Herald recently sent word to its correspondents in five large cities to get expressions from five distinct classes of voters on the question of expansion as exemplified by the present administration. The classes were carefully considered and the work was ordered to be done thoroughly. The result shows the following:

Business men seem to favor expansion.
Physicians favor expansion.
Clergymen, excepting Roman Catholics, who are non-committal, favor expansion.
Lawyers oppose expansion.
Laboring men almost unanimously oppose expansion.

A majority of the whole number interviewed were clearly opposed to the kind of expansion that the imperialists are trying to fasten onto the people.

The politics of the men interviewed has been left entirely out of the question, for it was realized that there are many Republicans who do not by any means agree with the McKinley policy, and many Democrats who approve of the retention of the Philippines.

In New York the sentiment against expansion is about equally divided. The large mercantile interests advocate the retention of the Philippines, and even further territorial extension as likely to benefit trade. Small tradesmen oppose it as likely to be too expensive to be beneficial.

San Francisco sees great opportunities in the retention of the Philippines, as the golden gate would become a great center of shipping.

In Southern cities expansion has made foes. For instance, the sugar planters and sugar dealers of Louisiana and New Orleans fear that the sugar industry in the United States would be imperiled by the accession of tropical territory elsewhere.

Of 36 polled in St. Paul one half are against expansion.

Residents of Memphis seemingly approve of expansion.

Baltimore is divided on the question.
Business men in Boston favor expansion. Denver is for expansion, as is also Philadelphia, while Milwaukee is against it. Atlanta voters oppose the administration policy.

The labor element in Chicago is against expansion, as are also St. Louis and New Orleans.

Citizens of Savannah are divided.
Taking the question as a whole the anti-expansionists have the better of it.
This indicates that the election is by no means won for the Republican party and its driving platform builders. The people want honest sentiments and propose to have them and are not to be fooled this year. The only way to win right is to vote to insure the success of the Democratic party.

STOP AND THINK.

On the birthday of a republic it is a good time to remember other republics.
The Transvaal has been struggling for liberty for months and not a word of sympathy has come from the government at Washington. When the declaration of independence is read today it is hoped it will forever engrave itself into the heart of every hearer. That passage which speaks of the inalienable right to liberty and that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed makes good reading while the American soldiers are in the Philippines at the command of the commander in chief of the army and navy, shooting down natives whose sole offense is a desire to be free to govern themselves. After you have glorified and shot off a few Roman candles just think over what the Fourth of July means to Americans and what it means to Filipinos. It is worth thinking about without political bias or prejudice. A terrible wrong is being committed by those who desire imperialistic powers. The safety of the republic is being hazarded by those who love self better than their native land and her institutions.

MR. OLDHAM'S GREAT SPEECH.

He Placed William Jennings Bryan In Nomination at the Kansas City Convention Thursday--Address Aroused the Greatest Enthusiasm.

(News-Democrat Leased Wire Service.)

Kansas City, July 6.—The speech nominating William Jennings Bryan to again lead the Democratic hosts, this time to victory, was made by Hon. W.
D. Oldham, deputy attorney general of Nebraska. It was a great speech and set the delegates wild with enthusiasm for the candidate. Mr. Oldham said:

Mr. Chairman:—More than an hundred years ago the Continental Congress of America adopted a declaration which had been drafted by the founder of the Democratic party, and the joyous tones of the old Liberty Bell, which greeted the act, announced to a waiting world that a nation had been born.

With hearts unchilled by the selfish sentiments of cold commercialism, you have responded patriotically to each sentiment contained in Democracy's first platform, as it was read to you at the opening of this convention; and in view of the radical departure which the party in power has made from the principles set forth in that heroic document, it is meet that we—true believers in the Republic of old—should, when choosing a field and forming our lines for a bloodless battle of ballots now impending, say in the language of one of the loved patriots of long ago:
"Read this declaration at the head of the army, and every sword shall be drawn from its scabbard, and a solemn vow taken to maintain it or perish on the bed of honor."

Much of history for this Republic shall be either made or marred by the action of this convention. You, as representatives of the only party which is co-existent with the nation itself; the only party which ever had within its own ranks sufficient constructive statesmanship to create a nation in which each citizen becomes a sovereign, have, true to the traditions you bear, in your platform set out in simple language, with a decided American accent, a plan for the people's redemption from each sacrilege and schism taught by the Republican party. That plan contains nothing but the approved precepts of the elders and doctors of your faith.
If, on such a platform, you place a candidate whose devoted and unblemished life shall stand as a pledge to the plain people that he in good faith, will carry out the solemn covenants made therein, then the hour of our ultimate triumph is at hand.

There is no greater honor reserved for a citizen of the United States than to become the standard bearer of the Democratic party. It at once enrolls his name on the scroll of the "Immor-tals who are not born to die," and encircles him with a halo of the glory of all the illustrious achievements which that unconquered and unconquerable organization has emblazoned on every page of our nation's history. It entrusts to his keeping the fame of that long line of statesmen and patriots who have knelt for a blessing at Democracy's shrine:

"Oh, bright are the names of those heroes and sages, That shine like stars through the dimness of ages, Whose deeds are inscribed on the pages of story, Forever to live in the sunlight of glory."

This high distinction must not be unworthily bestowed. It must follow as a reward of noble actions bravely done, for unrequited, tireless toil; for sacrifices made and strength kept; for trusts discharged and pledges kept.
We must seek a leader whose public and private life most nearly exemplifies his party's highest ideals; who stands unqualifiedly pledged to every issue we declare; who will carry the standard we place in his hands, even as the Black Douglas carried the sacred casket that enclosed the heart of Bruce.

He must not declare for free trade with Porto Rico, and then at the persuasive suggestion of the sugar and tobacco trust, sign a bill providing for a tariff on the products of that island.
He must not denounce a policy as one of "criminal aggression," and then at the demand of a power behind the throne, pursue the policy he has so denounced.

He must not, while professing opposition to combines and conspiracies against trade, send his emissaries to the trust baron castles to beg, like Lasarus, at Dives' gate, for subscriptions to his campaign.

He must not lend the moral support of his administration to a monarchy in its efforts to destroy a republic.
But he must ever sympathize with a people struggling for the right of self-government.

Instead of the Republican policy of mono-metalism, he must offer the free and unlimited coinage of the money metals of the constitution, the gold, that polished the wings of sandals of Hermes, and the silver that glitters in the bow of Iphigeneia.
Instead of a panic breeding, credit currency, controlled by the bank trust, he must offer government paper controlled by the people.

He must be able to distinguish between Democratic expansion and Republican imperialism. The first is a natural growth by the addition of contiguous American territory into every foot of which is carried the

CONSTITUTION, THE FLAG and the Decalogue, and over the shoulders of every inhabitant of added territory is thrown the purple robe of sovereign citizenship. It is a growth that has added eighteen stars to the field of blue in the "Banner of the Free," to symbolize the states that have been carved from territory annexed to the domain of the nation, by the wisdom and statesmanship of the Democratic party; this is an expansion that is bounded on the north by the constitution of the United States, on the east by the Monroe doctrine, on the south by the declaration of independence and on the west by the ten commandments.

How different this from the bandit policy of Republican imperialism, with its standing army and the bayonet rule of conquered provinces; its government of sullen subjects against their will by force and fraud; its denial to them of the protection of either the constitution or the command which says "Thou shalt not steal"—a policy that would send Uncle Sam off his American range with a cow-boy hat, a rope and a branding iron to rustle and brand—over all the loose islands of the Orient, while hypocritically chanting the long-metered Doxology.

Democratic skies are tinged with a rosier hue today than when we met in convention four years ago. Then a financial cataclysm had spread over the country, and although its every inducing cause was easily traced to the errors and follies of the Republican party, yet we were in power when it came, and we were wrongly held responsible for the wreck of shattered fortunes which followed in its wake.
Torn asunder by dissensions within, and disasters without, our party faced a gloomy and forbidding future which seemed to augur its dissolution. The problem then was to select a standard bearer bold enough to cover the rear of a retreat and save the party from destruction, if not from defeat.

While discord with her flaming torch confused the counsels there, from out of the sunset realm a champion came and bid defiance to the oncoming host.
With the strength of youth and the wisdom of age, with knightly mien and matchless speech, he towered above his peers and all who saw him then, with one accord did hail him "Chief," and gave our party's banner to his hand.
Slowly despair gave way to hope; confidence took the place where timorous feet had been; the broken, shattered columns formed again, and behind him, singing, came six million, five hundred thousand valiant men to that unequal fight.

And the story of how well he fought, how fearlessly he fell, and how dearly the enemy's victory was bought, has all gone out into history now.

Back from his "first battle" he came, a baffled but unconquered hero of the Right of Man. Conscious of the rectitude of his purpose and cheered by the belief "That no issue is ever settled until it is settled right," he cheerfully accepted in the result of that campaign, and girded his loins for the next great contest between the dollar and the man.

For four years he has waged an unceasing warfare against the people's enemies—for four years he has held up the party's standard and his voice has cheered the hosts of Democracy in every state and territory.

When the trusts began to increase under the protection of a Republican administration he was the first to point out the danger and prescribe a remedy.
When the alarms of war for humanity roused the heroic spirit of our land, he offered his sword to his country's cause on the day that war was declared.

When later he saw the administration departing from the ancient land marks of our institutions, in its enchanted dream of empire and militarism, he was the first to raise a warning voice and resigned his commission on the day the treaty of peace was signed, he threw himself into the contest for the rescue of the republic.

Realizing that imperialism, like the fabian Antaeus, was born of earth, and that contended with upon the selfish worldly plane of greed and gain and gold, it was of giant strength, and if thrown down would rise again refreshed from contact with its mother element. He, like the mighty Hercules, raised it high above the sordid sphere from which its strength was drawn, and on a plane of lofty patriotism, he strangled it.
